HOW MUCH DO YOU KNOW ABOUT TẾT IN SAIGON?

As the vibrant city of Saigon prepares to bid farewell to the old and welcome the new, the atmosphere preceding Tết, the Vietnamese New Year, is truly mesmerising. The city pulses with energy as families complete their annual spring cleaning and partake in the age-old tradition of worshipping ancestors. The markets buzz with activity as people shop for traditional Tết delicacies and hampers. Homes are adorned with colorful floral decorations symbolising good luck and prosperity, fostering a sense of unity and excitement.

Yet, it is during Tết itself that Saigon undergoes a magical transformation, casting a spell of serenity over the usually dynamic city. A much-mellowed Saigon is undoubtedly a sight to behold. The familiar cacophony of traffic gives way to the laughter of families reuniting, and the urban movements are put on hold, allowing Saigon to take a deep breath and reemerge.

The beating heart of Saigon lies in its flower street. Attracting more than one million visitors each year, Nguyen Hue flower street with the theme 'Spring of Love, Tết Reunion' displays a backdrop of winding dragon sculptures, botanical historic scenes and over 90,000 baskets of 99 flower varieties. Open to the public from 7pm, February 7 to 9pm, February 14, this pedestrian-only haven captures the essence of Tết in every step.

Adding to the Tết festivities, the Tết Spring Flower Festival at Tao Dan Park is also not to be missed for nature enthusiasts and professionals alike. The festival bursts with colours and scents, showcasing flowers, ornamental fish, bonsai, and landscape art. This gathering not only celebrates the beauty of nature but also highlights the craftsmanship of individuals dedicated to preserving and enhancing it.

As the clock ticks closer to the new year, Saigonites and visitors gather at Bach Dang Wharf to witness the breathtaking Tết fireworks. The spectacular display dispels misfortunes and ushers in a new chapter filled with hope and optimism. The night sky illuminates with vibrant colours, reflecting the shared spirit of celebration that unites the entire city.

In Saigon, Tết is not merely a festival; it is a grand spectacle of cultural richness, tradition, and collective joy of a city coming alive with the promise of a new beginning.

With an unwavering commitment to providing exceptional experiences, Park Hyatt Saigon is thankful to be included in two categories City Hotels - Vietnam and Hotel Spa - Vietnam of the highly coveted 'TRAVEL+LEISURE Luxury Awards Asia Pacific 2024'.
